

Dear Friend,

As we enter our 50th Golden Jubilee year, we celebrate the vision and values that have become synonymous with William Temple House: serving others with compassion and empathy, meeting timely basic needs such as food, clothing and rental assistance, providing skilled counseling services, and bringing healing and hope “to the least among us.”

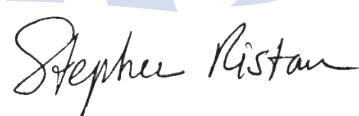

Inspired by the national fervor to promote equality, justice and human rights, and keenly aware of unmet needs in Portland, Father Clarence T. Abbott assembled a group of Lay Episcopalians in 1965 to begin a social ministry of community outreach, health and healing that became William Temple House. Starting in a rent-subsidized house owned by Good Samaritan Hospital with a phone and a card table, Father Abbott was the inspirational leader and galvanizing force that engaged corporate CEOs and community members alike in establishing and funding the organization. Over the past 50 years, William Temple House has touched the lives of tens of thousands of people. Scores of volunteers, interns and concerned citizens have joined forces in our mission, feeling it a privilege to live in faith and service.

Today, we recall our origins, inspired once more to serve those needing a hand to self-sufficiency. With energized new leadership, we re-dedicate ourselves to working in partnership with others to create a healthy, vibrant community where individuals and families can thrive and realize the hopes and dreams of a better tomorrow. We thank you for encouraging us in this important work and invite your continued participation and support.

Very truly yours,

John Chandler,

“I support William Temple House programs because they help people through present-time problems and give them tools to move forward in their lives.”

-DONOR

“The grief counseling I received was incredible. My counselor gave me the tools to deal with my emotions and now I feel empowered.”

-COUNSELING CLIENT

“Volunteering here provides a connection between those whose lives have suffered a setback and those who are willing and able to help. And both groups are better because of it.”
